SPEAKER BROCHURE

Nick Bowditch prides himself on three things as a professional speaker and conference MC:

- * his level of professionalism and reliability for event planners and organisers, including extensive amount of preparation for every job and very detailed follow-up
- * the level of both engagement and entertainment that audiences enjoy whilst he is on stage, regardless of the size of that audience or the size of the venue
- * how many times he has been booked consistently again and again by the same bureaus, agencies and businesses, and how often those clients have referred him to new audiences and event organisers

That is the sort of quality a speaker brings to an event after having presented to thousands of people all over Australia and internationally for many years.

And it's the sort of quality that you can rely upon for your upcoming event as well.

SOLID PREPARATION & FOLLOW-UP

Nick is an Australian motivational speaker, a successful (and unsuccessful) entrepreneur, TEDx speaker, a best-selling author, inspirational storytelling expert, a mental health advocate, a sexual abuse victim, personal growth coach, and someone who lives with Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder.

He is also a survivor.

He used to be really overweight, really erratic and difficult to be around, and really unhappy. But through a process of personal discipline and completely changing the way that he thinks, he has managed to get back in control of my life, and now he is helping other people do the same. He speaks on stages at conferences and events, teaching people how they, too, can reboot their thinking, and become the very best version of themselves.

SOME OF NICK'S MOST POPULAR PRESENTATIONS

MY MENTAL ILLNESS IS A GIFT

This was my TEDx talk a few years ago, and something that is still really special for me to present to an audience today. We are constantly told what we should be ashamed of, what we should hide, and what we should never admit out loud. Historically, having a mental illness has been one of those things. In this presentation I, instead, talk about how having a mental illness has been a gift to me, the superpowers it has given me, and the changes I was forced to make in my life because of my illness, that I will always be grateful for.

HELD BACK OR PROPELLED FORWARD

This presentation is all about change, and growth, and the things that hold us back (fear, criticism, and wondering 'am I enough?') and the things that can propel us forward (focussing on fact, being good at storytelling, and leading with kindness). It is the perfect balance between business development and the development of people in businesses. It is, however, just as helpful for audiences that are not business-related. It deals with emotional and important themes.

REBOOT YOUR THINKING

In 2016, I wrote a book, Reboot Your Thinking, and it became a best-seller. The book is about how I have learnt to change how I think, and developed a new resilience. I have applied this work to my health and fitness, how I live with mental illness and addiction, and how I have gone from being a victim of sexual abuse to being an advocate for others who have been through a similar experience. I happily share the steps that I employ in my life now to be fit, healthy, strong and resilient.

FROM PLAYING SMALL TO WALKING TALL

Sometimes it can feel like the world doesn't want us to change, doesn't want us to grow, and just wants us to fit in, conform, stay in your lane, and stay small. But honestly, that's not how you change the world. That's not even how you change your world. In this presentation, I give audiences five very simple, but very powerful, questions to ask themselves, the answers of which, have helped thousands of people now stop playing small, and start walking tall.

Nick is one of the most unique, authentic and inspiring speakers we've ever had at our events. The audience had a good mixture of both laughter and tears.

HANCOCK CREATIVE

Nick has received some of the highest scores and some of the best feedback we've ever received from any speaker we've ever used. Now, that's not an easy feat I should point out, we've had speakers including Michael E Gerber and Oren Klaff, just to name a few, and Nick has consistently scored higher than anybody.

ENTREPRENEUR AND INTERNATIONAL SPEAKER, KERWIN RAE

Having worked with Nick on numerous occasions, I can absolutely guarantee that he delivers on his promise. Audiences love him, and I have absolute admiration and respect for his speaking 'kick-assedness'. Book Nick and every expectation that you have will be exceeded - and your audience will have a blast.

BEST-SELLING AUTHOR AND INTERNATIONAL SPEAKER, ANDREW GRIFFITHS

Easy to listen to. Nick was a real standout. Intelligent, funny, authentic.
